

Vellum & More Adhesive Perfect Lettering & Titles

With Scotch® Vellum & More Adhesive you can apply die-cut lettering to your scrapbook page without fear of having unsightly liquid adhesive ooze out from under your letters and ruining your scrapbook page. You can also use the repositionability feature described in the Special Techniques Tip Sheet to help you expertly centre and line up your page titles. All you need is your can of Scotch® Vellum & More Adhesive, die-cut letters, a ruler, a scrap 12” strip of card stock, a small amount of protective paper and, if available, a pair of tweezers. Technique Tips can be downloaded at www.scotchtape.ca.

For perfect lettering and scrapbook page banners, prepare a small area of your workspace with some protective paper and follow the steps below:

1) Create a temporary ruler using a strip of 12” card stock and a ruler.

2) Spray a very light repositionable coat of adhesive on the back surface of the paper ruler and allow to dry. (see Special Techniques Tip Sheet).

3) Turn the letters upside down and apply a good even coating of adhesive (blue paper shown for contrast – most newsprint is ok too).

4) Place the tacky paper ruler on your page and using your tweezers, position the letters in place and press down to bond. It's easiest to work from the center of your title to the edges.

5) After the letters have been aligned, remove the paper ruler to leave a perfectly aligned and centred title on your scrapbook page.

6) Perfectly aligned lettering has never been so easy. The page is ready for your family pictures from the beach!

The technique works best if a very light “repositionable” coat of adhesive has been used on the protective paper in Step 3. This holds your letters in place while you coat them with adhesive. Refer to the Special Techniques Tip Sheet for detailed instructions on repositionable coats of adhesive. Remember to have FUN and be CREATIVE!!
